MONDAY MAY 17TH

At Age of Fifteen She Made Her Prima Donna Appearance in "Mikado."

Alice Nielsen, the $50,000 star atraction of 1915 Chautauquas, has created more audiences than any other singer. By that is meant types of

First she attracted attention child wonder, starting her professional light opera singing career at the age of eight. Until she was 15 she sang boys' parts in a travelling juve-nile opera company singing "Mika-do," "Chimes of Normandy," and popular opera throughout the

When 15 she made her first prima donna appearance as Yum-Yum "Mikado" and gained a new audience. That was her first girl part.

Next she sang to a new type of audience in the once popular light opera stock companies. Then she got her chance with the famous old Bostonians, in 1896, and made a hit as Annabel in "Robin Hood," the following season increasing her reputa-tion in a leading part in "Maid Mar and finally assuming the principal soprano role in "The Serenade." Her tremendous success in Serenade' brought her to another stage in her career when she was only 22 years old. She had demon-strate! to such an extent her ability to draw audiences that Victor Her-bert, composer of "The Serenade," wrote an opera specially for ber That was "The Fortune Teller," and as star at the head of her own company in that opera, beginning in 1898, and later in "The Singing Girl, isss, and later in "The Singing Girl," she created one of the biggest light opera audiences that ever followed the fortunes of a star.

In 1992 she attained her first forcign audience, successfully producing "The Fortune Teller" in London. Having reached the pinnacle of light opera, she did what no other light opera star has ever done, became a opera star has ever done, became a star of the first order in grand opera. She did this with speed that is likely to stand as the record. When it was decided that she should have an opportunity to make her grand opera debut in "Faust" she learned that opera in Italian in three weeks. To perfect herself in the difficult release. perfect herself in the difficult role of Marguerite in that short time size worked days and nights under a famous Italian opera coach. She captured her first grand opera audience in the Bellini theatre, Naples, and has kept on charming other grand opera audiences in Italy, England and the United States since.

But meantime she has created an-ther audience of stanch supporters in her winter concert tours. And now she is creating her latest and largest audience in that unique American institution, the Chautauqua. It promises to be her most profitable audirnce for, despite the fact that Chautauquas individually pay less than pairons of winter concerts and the opera to hear her, in the aggregate they pay more, for the big tent holds audiences that would fill sev-eral theatres. Thus the Redpath management has contracted to pay Miss Nielsen $50,000 and a share in profits above a certain amount, t largest sum that ever figured in contract for Chautauqua talent.

And there's a good deal to that.

They have an ad in this issue and they will continue to have one in each they will continue to have one in each tissue; and from time to time when they have special bargains, the public will find matters of particular interest in their announcements.

Woman's Health Requires Care

Women are so constituted as to be peculiarly susceptible to con-stipaton, and ther general health depends in large measure on care-ful regulaton and correction of this tendency. Their delicate or-ganisms rebel at the violence of cathartic and purgative remedies, which, while they may afford temporary relief, shock the system and serously disturb the functional organs.
